Research 2 Assessment Form 2022-2023

Student name & number: Final score: Grade:	Assessor name: Date of assessment:
Have all parts of the documentary been included?	YES - NO
Introduction.
Literature review.
Data Collection & Analysis.
Proposed solutions (i.e. product). Reflection + Recommendations for future research ar	ro included
Evaluation form to be completed by school represent Bibliography is included as a separate document and tudents pass the course if all categories described be
Introduction	Max. score 10
• the topic of the product is subject-specific.
• it focuses on a particular year group.
a challenge in teaching languages is describe the reason why it is considered problematic i
<ul> <li>Literature review</li> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. set)</li> </ul>	Max. score 10 nd directly linked to the research question and th cientific articles).
<ul> <li>Literature review</li> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so</li> <li>coherent review (not just a summary of different sources)</li> </ul>	Max. score 10 nd directly linked to the research question and th cientific articles). erent sources).
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. seconderent review (not just a summary of different context)</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30
Literature review     the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.     varied and relevant sources are used (e.g. so     coherent review (not just a summary of different collection & Analy     data are collected at the school in an objective	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30
<ul> <li>Literature review</li> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of different and collection &amp; Analy)</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of different review (not just a summary of different collection &amp; Analy)</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and th         cientific articles).         erent sources).         ysis         we and systematic manner.         n is described.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of different and collection &amp; Analy)</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and th         cientific articles).         erent sources).         ysis         we and systematic manner.         n is described.
<ul> <li>Literature review</li> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e.g. set coherent review (not just a summary of different review (not just a summary of different review (not just a summary of different review)</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and th         cientific articles).         erent sources).         ysis         we and systematic manner.         n is described.
<ul> <li>Literature review</li> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of diffeded at a collection &amp; Analy</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and th         cientific articles).         erent sources).         ysis         Wax. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.
<ul> <li>Literature review</li> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of different and collection &amp; Analy)</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>choices are substantiated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with the school of the</li></ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e.g. seconderent review (not just a summary of different and collection &amp; Analy)</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection?</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with the school in the school in</li></ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of diffe Data Collection &amp; Analy</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>choices are substantiated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with Evaluation (Internship School)</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of diffe Data Collection &amp; Analy</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with Evaluation (Internship School 17;</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of diffe Data Collection &amp; Analy</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>choices are substantiated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with Evaluation (Internship School 12; 'good' corresponds to a score of 17; 'good' corresponds to a score of 17;</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of diffe Data Collection &amp; Analy</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with Evaluation (Internship School 17;</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         crent sources).         ysis         Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of diffe Data Collection &amp; Analy</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>choices are substantiated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with Evaluation (Internship School 2017; 'good' corresponds to a score of 17;</li> <li>'excellent' corresponds to a score 20.</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and th         cientific articles).         erent sources).         ysis       Max. score 30         ve and systematic manner.         n is described.         here appropriate.         hool)       Max. score 20
Literature review <ul> <li>the selected literature is relevant, recent ar context.</li> <li>varied and relevant sources are used (e. g. so coherent review (not just a summary of diffe Data Collection &amp; Analy</li> <li>data are collected at the school in an objective various relevant perspectives are used.</li> <li>reliability and validity of their data collection</li> <li>use of data collection methods is described.</li> <li>results are clearly analysed and illustrated.</li> <li>choices are substantiated.</li> <li>ethical implications have been considered with Evaluation (Internship School)</li> <li>'satisfactory' corresponds to a score of 14;</li> <li>'good' corresponds to a score 20.</li> </ul>	Max. score 10         nd directly linked to the research question and the cientific articles).         cientific articles).         erent sources).         ysis         ysis         we and systematic manner.         n is described.         here appropriate.         hool)       Max. score 20         Max. score 10